

English textbooks

English is a cornerstone for our students' futures. Whether they go on to vocational training, university, or straight into the workforce, strong English skills give them a clear advantage in both study and employment. Many of our university students tell us that their grasp of English is what allows them to truly thrive in the classroom. To build this foundation, PLF provides extracurricular English classes starting in Grade 5 and continuing all the way through high school.

You can help keep their future fluent and stock the English program text books across three rural locations.

$600 provides English text books for over 800 rural students.
