Build A School Library

Description

Breaking the cycle of poverty in rural Cambodia takes many interconnected things — health, economic opportunity, peace in the home, and above all, education. At the heart of that education is literacy: in Khmer, which is every child's foundation, and in English, which opens doors to further study, professional careers, and opportunities that reach well beyond the village. Your gift builds a dedicated school library stocked with 8 bookshelves and 500 books — the majority in Khmer to support classroom learning, alongside English language books that directly serve students' English lessons and connect them to a wider world. For 450 students who rarely have access to books beyond a single worn class copy, this library changes what's possible.

Your Impact

The library runs 7 structured reading sessions per day, 6 days a week, with a maximum of 35 students per session — ensuring every child gets consistent, focused access. Khmer fiction and textbooks reinforce classroom learning and build the literacy foundation every child needs. English language books accelerate the skills that determine whether a child can access university, a career in tourism, business, or government — or stays locked out of those opportunities. As literacy and English proficiency rise, so do graduation rates and the real prospect of scholarships and further study. The library belongs permanently to the school and community — and as today's students become tomorrow's teachers and parents, the value of what you've built compounds with every generation.
